Owners of Lost Dog Found Thru P.O. Box Number

A post-office box number was the means of a lost dog being restored to its owner last week.

Last Friday the News-Bulletin had a phone call from Mrs. Henry Bechstein of Tinley Park, saying that a dog with a harness on and a number 354 had been seen in front of the Tinley Park post office and the Cavett Drug Store. She said the dog's collar bore the number and the inscription that finder of dog should notify Mokena 354.

The matter was first taken up with Village Clerk Everett Cooper at Mokena with a view of checking the dog licenses, but Mr. Cooper said the highest number issued was 75. Next the post office box numbers were checked and it was found that box No. 354 was that of Leslie Clark. Upon inquiry it was learned their dog answering the description of the dog seen in Tinley had been missing for a week. Mr. Clark went to Tinley, but failed to find the dog. Later Mrs. Clark also went to Tinley Park. Mr. and Mrs. Clark continued their search and while in front of Hick's Market, Mrs. Clark called the dog's name, King, and all of a sudden the dog appeared seemingly from nowhere and was as happy to see his owners as they were to see him.

The dog is a pet of the two sons of the Clark's, namely Fred and Robert and they had the inscription put on the dog's collar that in case the dog was ever lost whoever found him could contact his owner by contacting post-office box 354, Mokena.

APPEAL TO FUEL ADMINISTRATOR KEEPS COAL IN MOKENA BINS

When many coal bins in Mokena were getting near the bottom of their supply and with coal in town, L. G. Bruder of the Bruder Coal Co. took the matter up directly with C. J. Potter, Deputy Solid Fuels Administrator in Washington, D. C. and has received the following reply:

This will acknowledge your letter of February 6, wherein you state that Area Distribution Manager Fitzpatrick has made available to you one car of Central Illinois egg coal.

You ask when Pocahontas egg coal from West Virginia will be available, and request an additional car of Franklin County, Illinois egg coal.

Due to the critical shortage of coals produced in District 7, and after giving consideration to the fact that you have alternate fuel supplies available, we cannot, at present, assure you of shipments in addition to what your regular suppliers may be able to make. This is also applicable to the Franklin County, Illinois egg coal.

If you have handled Franklin County, Illinois egg coal regularly it is the opinion of this Office that you should be able to secure this through your regular source of supply. However, if the community of Mokena is suffering hardship because of inadequate fuel supplies we suggest that you contact Mr. J. C. Fitzpatrick, Area Distribution Manager, Solid Fuels Administration for War, Room 1161, Merchandise Mart, Chicago, Ill. Mr. Fitzpatrick will do all within his power to assist you in obtaining whatever Illinois coals are available.

Sincerely yours,
C. J. Potter, Deputy Solid Fuels Administrator.

New Lighting Regulations Will Not Interfere

The Mokena Civic Association at their monthly meeting Wednesday evening definitely decided to go ahead with their plans for holding their annual Home coming the latter part of August.

Sam Peck of Grant Park was present and outlined what rides and amusements can be provided and the committee in charge of the Home Coming arrangements was instructed to select the concessions desired and contact Mr. Peck for booking.

Mr. Bartling of the Public Service Co., was also present and stated that the restrictions on lighting does not affect our door amusements such as home comings or carnivals. The only restriction is that no illuminated advertising signs can be used such as a sign advertising a certain ride, or the name of a certain booth or exhibitor's product is not permitted. It was further pointed out that if the festivities would have to close at midnight it would not mean much as most affairs of this nature wind up by midnight anyway. So Mokena will again have its popular Home Coming.

Mr. Bartling also showed two reels of movies on the war in the Pacific which were very realistic and were much appreciated and especially in view of the fact that the night was very foggy and bad for driving. Mr. Bartling said it took him and Mr. Smith of the Washington St. School in Joliet nearly two hours to drive to Mokena due to the thick fog.

At the close of the program Mr. Bartling gave a brief talk on the approaching Red Cross drive. He has been named Rural chairman for Will Co., and stated he would appreciate all the support that could be given local co-chairmen in the drive. The Civic Association then voted to donate $25 toward the Red Cross drive and immediately presented Mr. Bartling with a check for this amount.

THE CHEST OF JOASH AT METHODIST CHURCHES SUNDAY, FEB. 25

The Chest of Joash will stand at the altar of the Tinley Park and Mokena Methodist churches, under the pastorate of Rev. J. Frank Anderson, to receive the offerings of the members and friends of the two churches in the Crusade for Christ 25 million dollar campaign for post war reconstruction and relief. The amount apportioned to these churches is $780. The people of the two churches have been tithing and sacrificing during the month of February and will bring their cash offerings to the services and in a great procession by the entire congregations, put them in the Chest of Joash. The hope is to reach the entire amount in one day, with Tinley Park contributing $590 and Mokena $190. The service at Mokena is at 9:15 and at Tinley Park at 10:45 A. M. These will be great inspirational services and everybody is invited.

AN INSIDERS VIEW OF RADIO DRAMA TO BE STAGED

An insiders' view of a radio drama being staged and put on the air is of interest to and is being offered residents of Chicago's south side and adjacent communities by Ingersoll Steel & Disc Co., Borg-Warner division at West Pullman.

The Ingersoll program, a stirring episode in the WGN Monday night series, "America Unlimited", tells the story of a peacetime plant that converted wholly to war production. It will be aired from Medinah Temple, State and Ohio streets in downtown Chicago, 9 to 9:30 p. m. February 26.

The larger auditorium has been reserved, according to R. M. Van Dyke, personnel director, so south side residents as well as men and women employees may be guests of the Ingersoll management. "Swing" workers will be awarded an extended lunch period to hear the broadcast in the plant.

With a background of musical numbers, the script dramatizes the growth of the Ingersoll company from 14 workers in 1884 to 4000 in four factories today.

Free tickets to the downtown show may be obtained by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Mr. Van Dyke at 1030 W. 120 St. Chicago.

Subscribers to the Tinley Park Times are invited especially to form parties for attending the program, which is regarded as a distinct tribute to the part south side plants and war workers are playing in defense production.

Van Dyke emphasizes that early arrivals will witness the interesting transformation of bare stage to complete broadcast set. An explanation of the various installations will be heard.

It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood. You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smearing and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder. There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on medicine that has won countrywide approval than on something less favorably known. Doan's have been tried and tested many years. Are at all drug stores. Get Doan's today.

Tinley Park News

With U. S. Supply Forces, France. Handling U. S. Army railroad traffic in and out of a busy railroad center in Oise Section of the Communications Zone is only one of the jobs performed by a 5 man Rail Traffic Office unit of the Army's Transportation Corps.

Since taking over its duties October 9, the unit, commanded by Capt. Ernest M. Christel of Berrien Springs Michigan, has recovered 22,000 Jerri-cans, captured a German prisoner who had escaped at Cherbourg, provided hot water and washing facilities for many troop trains passing through to the front, and lines up bills for a weekly average of 80 to 600 truck convoys troops.

Capt. Christel, whose wife Berneta, lives in Tinley Park, Ill. explained that the Jerri-cans apparently had been collected by combat troops and placed not far from the railroad tracks, in a field. Twenty-two freight cars were required to haul the cans away.

As for the escaped German, he was caught during a routine check of a freight train when it pulled into the yards from Cherbourg. The Nazi had hopped the freight at the channel port in his short lived bid for return to Germany.

Normally however the unit is occupied merely with the checking of trains in and out of its yards.

SERVICEMEN'S NEWS

Gulfport, Miss.

Sat. Dec. 30, 1944

Dear Folks:

I want to thank you extremely much for your swell Christmas package. It reached me in excellent shape and was well enjoyed. Everything was very thoughtful of you.

You will have to bear with some poor handwriting on my part for I am at present bedridden. It seems a good epidemic of scarlet fever has been travelling thru our base and it came my way. I've been in the base dispensary for about 10 days now and will be here for about two weeks more providing no complications set in; they are treating me with sulphur drugs. So my recovery should be speeded.

I'm still in the radio technician program and will be in this base for about two months yet. From here, I don't know where I'll go. I kind of hope it will be Navy Pier for there is a school there.

My time has been so occupied with school work that I have sadly neglected my correspondence. I want to say hello to all the fellows and gals. I hope you all have a lot of luck in the New Year and we will all be back together soon, this should be a big year for us.

Again thanks a lot and lots of success with your swell committee.

Sincerely,

Jack Ryan

Dec. 28, 1944

Dear Friends:

I have just received the Christmas package that you sent and wish to thank all of you for your kindness in remembering those of us who must be away from home at this time.

For our Christmas dinner we had turkey with all the trimmings which included ice cream. We had plenty to eat at all times and are able to get all the cigarettes, candy and gum we want so we are really well taken care of. The paper arrives a little late but enjoy reading it just the same. There isn't much that we can say about the Island due to censorship rules but can say that we have seen the B29's take off on their way to blast Tokyo.

We have had several air raids and in the latest (Christmas night) twenty-five bombers came over. They must have liked the place as fourteen did not go back. We get the news from the States every day, that snow storm you had made me a little home sick. I miss the snow but make up for it by going swimming every afternoon.

It is almost time to go to work so for now this will be all. In closing I want to thank you again for the Christmas package and hope we can all be back home for next Christmas.

Hello Committee:

Received the Christmas gift the other day, it came just at the right time because I happened to be short on writing paper. So now I'll have to get on the ball and start writing. I enjoyed the candy very much, well I should say the boys and myself, yours happens to be the first box that I received so far for Christmas and I really enjoyed it. Well I said that before, but there is not much to write about, all I can say I hope you folks have a Happy Christmas and New Year.

Yours,

Edward Beckler

Dear Friends:

I thank you very much for the Christmas box which arrived today. All the contents were real luxuries to me, and the stationary a dire necessity which down here is very scarce. The box of Fannie May's candies was a real treat and was very welcome to all of the boys here.

I see you aren't up to date on my address, but I can't blame you for that as I've not written to you in a very long time and my address has been changing about every one or two months. We are fast to keep up with which might account for the lack of mail coming to us.

Well folks I surely hope all of you have a very Merry Christmas.

Yours very truly,

Frank Wright.

Dear Friends:

I am sorry I haven't written to you sooner. I have enjoyed the News Bulletin immensely, have shared it with several fellows from in and near Will County. Just couldn't resist "sampling" your Christmas candy. My buddies enjoyed it too. It was delicious and words can't express my appreciation.

I am attending Aviation Electricians Mate school here and am getting a very intensive study of Aviation electricity. It is a 20 week course so will be here throughout the winter. I will be thinking of you "poor" northerners when you get the January "thaw."

Again, I say, that you people have no idea of the effects of your work. You are doing a job which can't be expressed in words. Thank you for all you have done for me and until next time I remain.

Very truly yours,
Robt. Legh Corp S2-c

Hello Folks:

How is everyone in the old home town? I'm not much at writing letters so don't hold this against me.

I am only going to write a few lines to thank you for the swell box of fudge I received from you a few days before Christmas. The fudge arrived here in swell shape but was a little soft. However that did not hold any of us back. I think I got four pieces of it and the only reason I did not get more was because I couldn't eat any faster. I no more than opened the box when there were six pairs of hands in it.

When anyone who sleeps in this tent gets a package the other five fellows bunch around with a hungry look in their eyes and are ready to get more than their share out of it if they can.

I had an experience a few days ago I shall never forget. I was about two hundred miles up in the hills where natives are natives, as very few white men ever get up there. I have seen pictures of natives with bones and other things driven thru their noses. And always thought it was untrue. But I know different now. I saw one native carry some sort of a pipe thru a hole in the lower part of his ear. These natives would work a month for a little hatchet and a little salt. Also back home one has to pay a fortune for bananas most likely, here we are able to get a whole bunch for a teaspoon full of salt. I ate so many bananas while I was up there that I had stomach cramps for two days.

I could write you many more interesting things but I am afraid you would think it is all baloney so will stop now while it doesn't sound too bad.

I've been pretty lucky since I've been over here as I had a chance to talk to Roger Strasberg and Bill Ayers a couple of times as that was something I never expected to do. There also is a fellow here who was in my classes in high school the first two years. We often sit down and shoot the bull about Joliet and vicinity. He knew Bill Ayers as he played in the high school band together. In other words we had a reunion on Sunday morning. Well this is all for this time. Thanks again for the candy it was swell.

As ever,
Bob Paulsen

Seivert and son Wesley, Miss Lenna Alexander, Lester Koerner Mrs. Lillian Zelko and son Johnny and Vernon Alexander all attended a family dinner at 6 o'clock Sunday at the Harvey Crawford home in Wilton Center. The occasion was the 42nd wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander and also Mrs. Alexander's birthday anniversary.

Warning returned recently from several months spent in France and Germany where he was hospitalized twice for injuries received in action and was awarded the Purple Heart. MORE WARWORKERS OR MORE WAR?

"I now call upon you for your supreme

—GENERAL MAC ARTHUR

GET A WAR JOB! KEEP IT!

Let's face facts. Not long ago, many people were saying "the war will be over by Christmas." But it isn't over—not by a long shot. It may last many months longer, unless new shortages of military supplies are met now.

Meanwhile, each time the clock ticks, our boys die—in foxholes and twisted wrecks of tanks, in planes plunging earthward like terrible flaming comets, and in choking icy seas . . .

YOU can help cut short the killing, bring victory closer! YOU AND YOUR NEIGHBORS can speed triumph and peace, not just by hours put by months . . . if you will take a war job.

Because our military leaders would rather sacrifice a million rounds of ammunition than a single American life—we have actually used up munitions intended for use in April . . . Shells are now being rationed on some fronts . . . Tanks, jeeps, big guns, aircraft engines, trucks are also desperately needed in increased quantities.

These shortages can be met only if the war plants listed here get more men and women workers at once. Come on! Lend a hand! If you are not already in war work, get one of these jobs today, and KEEP it. The more you supply, the fewer of our boys will die.

The Japs Just Couldn't Take It!

So devastating was the assault fire thrown at Lingayen beach, that it completely pulverized Jap defenses. Right now American troops are driving ever closer toward Manila.

If you work in a plant listed on this page—you were there! You made the landing! You are smashing across Luzon!

For weapons forged in Chicago plants are winning this battle. As examples: Douglas C-54's carried in urgent supplies; Dodge B-29 engines powered planes in neutralizing air raids; Stewart-Warner fuses exploded many of the artillery shells; Western Electric radar located enemy aircraft; and diesel engines made by General Motors' Electro-Motive division, drove the landing craft onto the beach.

These are only a few of the "MUST" plants. For full list inquire at nearest office of U.S. Employment Service

WOMEN'S SERVICE CLUB NEWS

By Mrs. Berle Needham

Word has been received that Cpl. George Hentsch is now in France. Pfc. Walter Hentsch is in Palau and Jerry Benhett has recently been in this same vicinity.

Pfc. Gordon Benson and Charles Burkhardt are now in the Philippines. If your serviceman has had a change of address since Christmas please get in touch with Miss Elmira McGovney and give her the new address as we are getting ready to send out our Easter cards and will need this information.

The next regular meeting of the Club will be March 5th in the school. All members are urged to be present and help get the Easter cards ready for mailing.

If you have any interesting items about your servicemen, where they are, or what they are doing, it would be appreciated very much if you would get in touch with the Publicity Chairman, so that she could pass this information on to the others in service.

Lt. Dean Rueckert has returned to Foster Field after enjoying a leave at home.

10 January 1945

Dear friends:

Finally I am getting around to dropping a few lines to you and the good ladies of the Mokena Women's Club. I received the first package of candy early in November and then the second one arrived just a few days before Christmas. You made a very fine selection of items, congratulations to the committee who made the purchases and to those who packed the boxes, I say, "Well done." It is really gratifying to a person who has been away for a long time to know that the folks at home are remembering us who are in the service.

It is well over 20 months since seeing folks or friends around Mokena but the News-Bulletin and the many letters I receive have kept me very well informed of the many happenings. I was very sorry to hear of some of the tragedies of this war which have struck Mokena. To the families I express my sympathy. I know what it means to a family to receive word that a loved one is injured, missing or killed in action. I have read and tried to answer hundreds of letters like that and find words are inadequate to express our feelings to bereaved wives, mothers and fathers.

The radio and paper have stated that you are again being visited by old man winter. We had our first real snow fall since coming to England. Last winter the weather was really mild but this year it has been around freezing for sometime. We have very good barracks so the cold doesn't bother us. I really feel sorry for those fellows over on the front lines.

Again to the good folks of Mokena I say thank you. May this year see an end to hostilities in Europe and the South Pacific nearing a finish.

Best regards and God's blessings to all.

Sincerely,
Wilbur Mancke
Thank you Wilbur for a very lovely letter. Mrs. Needham.

Airplane Speed Indicators Correct Only at Sea Level

As speed indicators in airplanes register accurately only at sea level, pilots have to estimate speeds by adding 2 per cent to their readings for each 1,000 feet in altitude.

For example, when the indicator registers a speed of 225 miles an hour at 5,000 feet, a pilot knows that he is actually traveling almost 248 miles an hour.

AFTER all wars, morals collapse and character takes a nose dive. For wars are destructive in more ways than in the matter of human life, human flesh and bone, and man-built cities.

It was after the first world war that the Black Sox scandal developed. This was in 1919. But the Black Sox were not the only crooked offenders. There were many others — on other teams.

Everyone has heard recently of the 12,000 soldiers who were AWOL in France where every man was needed for his job. Many of these sold cigarettes and other front-line needs to the French black market. Only a few have been convicted and sentenced to death or long terms of penitentiary labor. But here is proof of thousands willing to betray their own fighting mates for some form of profit.

This is something far beyond throwing a baseball or a basketball game. Or a football game. It is the ultimate in infamy. So if this can happen to our army along the fighting front, with over 12,000 betrayals, some far lower than any Benedict Arnold, you can see what can happen to sport.

The Brooklyn college basketball matter was only a small part of the picture. We all know that the average kid—the average college student—is honest. We also know that he has had crooked governors, crooked senators and crooked congressmen. But politics is accepted as at least a partly crooked game. Sport isn't.

Must Be on Guard
Once they blast the foundations of complete honesty from under sport, the entire structure starts to cave in. We have had too much dishonesty, entirely too much crookedness, entirely too much cowardice in politics. Everyone knows that. But sport can't be "almost clean." It can never reach the lower level of politics, and still get by. It is for this reason that sport must be on guard through the remainder of the present war—and through the postwar period on beyond.

It isn't enough to say that most athletes are honest. This applies to baseball, football, basketball and boxing. In another way it applies to racing.

We must go beyond this rating. In 1919 there were over 400 honest ballplayers — yet there were eight players who came near wrecking the game. Judge Landis and Babe Ruth saved it.

The professional gambler, as a rule, is smart, smooth and intelligent, although there are exceptions. He knows human nature and its weaknesses. And he has cash to offer. Above all else, the pro gambler wants the winning edge, the winning percentage, for his money. Too many of these would betray the souls of their mothers for a winning bet.

Once again — I honestly believe this applies to the minority. But the minority, with the playing minority in sport, can wreck any game whose main bulwark must be honest effort.

Unless there is the strictest sort of control shown by sporting leaders — including coaches, college presidents and iron-hearted commissioners, sport can wallow into more crookedness than it has ever known.

To me, it isn't enough to say that most of these athletes are honest. Most people are honest. But there is still many a crook around who can at least come close to wrecking the whole works. Let's not be too glib again. Who would have believed in 1919 that almost an entire ball club could be bought at a cheap price to throw a world series—including two potential hall-of-fame stars? Who could have believed that 12,000 soldiers in France would betray their fighting mates at the front? Or who could have believed that a Brooklyn basketball team—one of Brooklyn's prides—would have sold out to cheap gamblers? The gamblers hardly count. They were barely ducking Sing Sing anyway. But the five kids are wrecked beyond all help. Their lives are over in any decent community.

Sport today needs keen, alert, honest and fearless leaders—more than it ever needed before. For there is a tidal wave of dishonesty on its way, no matter what the optimists may tell you.

Boxing Decisions
Just why is it that referees, judges, boxing writers and the crowd so often disagree violently on the winner and the winning and losing rounds? I know practically every boxing writer and official around New York. In a ten-round contest I've seen two able boxing writers disagree entirely on six or seven of the ten rounds, and both disagree just as violently with the three officials, who in turn were disagreeing with one another.

Washington, D. C. U. S. TREATMENT OF GERMAN PRISONERS

Parents of boys who are prisoners of Germany get increasingly burned up at reports showing how badly they are fed by the enemy, while German prisoners in the U. S. are eating better than American civilians.

German prisoners of war, many of them arrogant, insolent, and considered beyond political rehabilitation, get rationed foods denied civilians, and in some cases receive scarce foods requiring four times the food stamps now allowed American civilians.

The provost marshal, of course, is living up to the strict letter of the Geneva convention regarding prisoners, which provides that they be fed the same rations as U. S. soldiers.

Thus at one Florida camp, a one-week menu recently showed that the Nazi prisoners' ration for a single week would have required 45 meat points and 63 processed food points per man. Here is a sample of some of the meals German prisoners of war received at MacDill field, Florida.

Dinner: Turkey a la king, parsley potatoes, cauliflower, celery and pickles, bread, butter, chocolate cake, coffee.

At breakfast the next day they received grapefruit, dry cereal, fresh milk, boiled eggs, toast, butter, jam and coffee.

For luncheon they had veal steak, lyonnaise potatoes, stewed corn, fruit salad, bread, butter, peaches and coffee.

For supper the PW's had veal loaf, gravy, escalloped potatoes, green peas, cabbage and pineapple salad, bread, butter, cinnamon rolls and coffee.

The prisoners are served butter three times a day, seven days a week. During other days of the same week they had fried pork chops, bacon and eggs, beef stew, spareribs, roast veal, a la king, roast beef with gravy, baked ham and baked beans with salt pork. They were also given Boston cream pie for dinner, butterscotch pudding, pineapple fritters, marble cake, fruit cobbler, mince pie, peach shortcake, and other fancy dishes.

Meanwhile, American boys held by the Germans complain that were it not for Red Cross packages provided them by relatives they would be hungry constantly.

ARMY DISCHARGES

With all the pressure the army has been bringing for a work-or-fight law, no one in congress has taken time for a real investigation of the army's own wasteful disposition of manpower. Among other things, there has been no probe of army policy regarding medical discharges.

Actually, army medics all over the country are discharging men for minor ailments which, although rendering them unfit for front-line action, don't effect their ability to do clerical, construction, or other types of work.

Last summer General Marshall also ordered discharges for men found to be developing nervous disorders as a result of their army service. But last October, so many men were successfully faking these difficulties that a six-week freeze was called, and a much stiffer discharge examination required.

But "goldbricks" and "gripes" are still the men who most frequently win their discharge papers. If a man dislikes the army, is uncooperative and is determined to get a medical discharge, the attitude of his officers is usually "good riddance." But a good man on other than combat duty, who has a legitimate illness which merits discharge, finds it extremely difficult to get his release because "he's a good man and we need men like him."

CAPITAL CHAFF

¶ The office of War Information so far has banned Lester Cowan's new movie hit "Tomorrow the World" from distribution in European liberated countries. The story shows a Nazi youngster transferred to the U. S. A. and being beaten up by the U. S. A. and Hitler's idea. OWI officials say they may release the ban for France and Belgium, but will not let the film get to Germany. ¶ An inside row is being waged over the reappointment of Al Woll, son of AFL labor leader Matthew Woll, as U. S. district attorney in Chicago. Matt Woll is 100 per cent against Roosevelt and White House advisers don't see why his son should be rewarded by FDR. However, Sen. Scott Lucas, friend of Jake Arvey, is pulling wires for Woll's reappointment.

¶ Behind the United Automobile Workers' nationwide referendum to continue the "no-strike" pledge, was the feeling on the part of some workers that this pledge originally was forced on them by the union bosses. Union leaders therefore wanted to give them all a chance to vote. . . . The Walter Reuther faction of the auto workers previously favored a "no-strike" pledge until the war with Germany was over, but Reuther is now supporting the all-out "no-strike" pledge for the all-out effort against the Japs.

JESUS, THE SON OF GOD

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 16:13-17; 17:1-9
GOLDEN TEXT—Whoever therefore shall confess me before men, him will I confess also before my Father which is in heaven.—Matthew 10:32.

"What think ye of Christ?" There is a question that every human being must answer. Jesus asked it (Matt. 22:42), and each of us makes some kind of reply.

It is the touchstone that tries men, and churches, organizations and movements. The answer to it is of deep importance, for it determines character, condition, and destiny for time and eternity.

Jesus, the Christ, the Son of the living God, is the center of the entire lesson.

I. Jesus Confessed (16:13-17).

With His crucifixion now only six months away, our Lord in preparation for it is about to make a more definite claim to Messiahship, and thus to establish the truth in the minds of His disciples. He therefore asks this all-important question about Himself.

First, it is a general query, "Whom do men say that I am?" The answer (v. 14) indicates that the common opinion concerning Christ was a very high one. He had made an impression on the people of His time, and this has been true down through the ages. Even those who do not believe on Him admit that He was "the ideal representative and guide to humanity," or the person before whom "everyone would kneel." But beautiful tributes to His character and leadership are worse than meaningless unless they lead to a personal confession of Him as Lord and Saviour.

The question becomes personal as He asks, "Whom do ye say that I am?" That question no one can escape. We cannot refuse to answer. Neutrality is impossible. Whatever we do or say, or do not do or say, is a decision.

Peter's answer is really the sum and substance of Christian doctrine. He recognized Him as the Messiah, the fulfillment of all Hebrew prophecy, and as the Son of the living God, the Redeemer and Saviour of men, the One in whom centers all Christian faith.

II. Jesus Transfigured (17:1-3).

As His amazed disciples looked on, the eternal, divine glory of the Son of God could no longer be hidden by the human body and the humble garments of our Lord, and "His face did shine as the sun and His raiment was white as light."

They saw their beloved Master now for what He really was, the Son of God. The testimony of Peter was no longer mere words, although ever so blessed. His speech had been confirmed by sight and they knew their Master as the Lord of glory.

It is essential in both the life and service of a Christian that he clearly understand the truth about Christ, His person and His work. When that understanding is tied up with a personal vision of His glory, there is assurance and power.

The want of such a vision explains the lack of zeal for soul-winning, the ineffectiveness of witness, the unwillingness to suffer or sacrifice for Christ's sake. "Where there is no vision, the people perish" (Prov. 29:18) for want of a witness concerning the Saviour.

III. Jesus Triumphant (17:4-6).

The crowning point of the transfiguration came when the voice spoke out of the bright cloud and gave not only the Father's unqualified approval of Christ, but also His command that men should listen to Him and heed His message of redemption.

Note how this word of the Father completed the transfiguration. In itself it might have been likened to that which happened to Moses (Ex. 34:29, 30). We say likened to, because the glory which showed forth in Jesus was from within, not just a reflected glow.

But the words from heaven provide the conclusive and final witness. They so impressed Peter that he talked of them as a cherished memory and a transforming power in his life, even when he was an old man (II Pet. 1:16-18).

How do they impress you? Are you ready to acknowledge Jesus as the Christ, the Son of God, and take Him as your Saviour?

IV. Jesus Only (17:7-9).

Having seen Him in His glory, they now saw Him alone. True, the others had gone, but is there not also the thought that He, the blessed God, now filled the vision of their souls?

Surely we find it right at hand to make that application to our own lives. When we really see Him as He is, then He fills our vision, and when He does that, we have reached real satisfaction of life.

"Jesus only" is more than a motto or a theme for a song. It is the epitome of a life worth while. It makes one want to ask everyone, "Do you know Him?" Well, do you? If not, will you take Him as your Saviour right now? Christian, will you let Him fill your life?

Nebraska Oak Leaf Heirloom Quilt

Heirloom Quilt.

THIS handsome quilt belonged to Mary Gregg McCollum who lived in Kearney, Nebraska, sixty or more years ago. Faded to a soft pink on white, it was doubtless a bright turkey red "oak leaf" when as a bride she went from Berea, Kentucky, to Nebraska. The twenty-inch block is put together in four separate sections—the leaf itself is 7 inches.

To obtain complete cutting pattern and finishing directions for the Nebraska Oak Leaf Quilt (Pattern No. 5830), with amounts of materials specified, send 16 cents in coin, your name, address and the pattern number.

For a pleasant flavor in tea, add a bit of dry orange peel to the canister, and keep tightly closed.

To make screws penetrate hard wood more easily place a little ordinary household soap on the thread.

Rayon threads are plenty weak when wet. Therefore, have a care when straightening stocking seams, pulling up hose, or removing them after having been caught in a shower.

When a light bulb breaks off, leaving the top screw part in the socket, first be sure that the current is turned off. Then insert a cork into the socket and turn to remove the cap.

If a newspaper becomes stuck to a varnished table top, apply olive oil. Let soak thoroughly, then paper can be removed.

Baste velvets with silk thread. This leaves no mark of bastings.

Tie a button on the end of the string attached to the toddler's toy wagon or truck so the string doesn't slip through his fingers.

Due to an unusually large demand and current war conditions, slightly more time is required in filling orders for a few of the most popular pattern numbers.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Rubber does not enter into the making of tents, yet the demand for military tents has reduced the manufacture of passenger car tires. Tire cord and yarn for tent duck are made with the same machinery.

Assuming that the trees are in reasonably good condition when the Far East rubber plantations are re-occupied, experts anticipate that within two years some 1,600,000 tons of natural rubber will be made available, enough to fill one year's estimated needs. That is why B. F. Goodrich officials believe civilians will still have to depend upon synthetic rubber tonnage in addition to that required for natural security.

Country Cured by HOMER CROY

© W.N.U. SERVICE

THE STORY THUS FAR: Amos Croy and his wife settled on a farm in Missouri, where Homer was born. Sunday meant church, company for dinner, and steer weighing. The Croys attended the Omaha Exposition, where Homer had his first taste of the outside. Homer finished high school and college and went to New York City. He was rejected by every newspaper in the city. Theodore Dreiser hired him as a cub on a woman's magazine. His first job was to read the letters and pick out the best in a contest on unusual pets. The judges agreed on the first winner, the others were drawn by districts. He continued to free-lance with some success. The pay was only enough to encourage him to continue.

CHAPTER XIX

Mornings were longest; mornings when he had always been so active. He would go out on the porch and sit in his rocker, waiting for neighbors to pass and to wave at him. Sometimes they pulled up for a chat. That was nice.

He would go back to the kitchen with the news. "Earl Trullinger passed drivin' their new sorrel. I think they paid too much for him. Lem Gault and Mrs. Gault went by. I waved but he didn't see me. I expect his eyes are failing."

They had a farmers' telephone put in and when it would ring, Phebe would dry her hands and softly take off the receiver. Pa could never quite bring himself to eavesdrop. But it was all right for Phebe to do that. Womenfolks were different.

She'd tell him the news: "Jim Vert's broken the trip on his wheat drill and is comin' to town to see if he can get another. He may have to telegraph to Kansas City."

"He never keeps his machinery under cover!" Pa was dead against anybody who neglected their machinery.

"Mattie Knabb's folks are comin' in from Nebraska."

"Did you learn when they'd get here?"

"She don't know. She just got the card yesterday."

"They'll probably have trouble crossing the Platte. I see it's on a rampage."

He would go down to the bank to see what stock reports had been chalked up on the blackboard. This was a meeting place for the other retired farmers; they would stand there studying the board and discussing the perplexing ups and downs of the market. Heavy hogs were off; light ones up. That was just like the commission houses. Want one thing one week, next week you couldn't give it to 'em.

"How many steers you feedin', Amos?"

"Eighty-two now."

"When do you calc'late to turn 'em?"

"The market is so tricky I think I'll feed 'em a while yet."

"Hog Baker brought in a load of shoats this morning."

They would nod respectfully, for Hog Baker was the best hog farmer in the country. People paid attention to him. Sometimes other farmers would ship just because he did. Nobody could ask for a finer compliment than that. Hog Baker knew he was the best hog farmer, and Saturdays would swagger down the street in his old slouch hat. When he stepped over to the edge of the sidewalk to talk for a moment, he'd soon have a crowd around him. Maybe he'd drop something.

Pa would go to Tom Wadley's; lots of farm news there. Maybe somebody he knew would be in. Well (he'd say to Tom) times are changin'.

"What do you think of this havin' a county agent to tell people how to farm?"

"I've always been wantin' to find an easy way," Pa would say and they'd laugh.

"You've made quite a success of farmin', Amos."

Pa would straighten up a little. "I've managed to keep out of the poorhouse."

"You've been more liberal in your giving than most men."

"A person ought to do what he can," Pa would say, pleased in spite of himself.

Many of the retired farmers loafed in the courthouse yard, lounging on the benches, using the courthouse toilet facilities, watching what teams came in. But Pa wasn't one of them. Even now he couldn't loaf. Must keep busy.

"Want to run out to the farm?" Pa would ask Phebe.

They would have an early dinner (eleven-thirty) then Pa would hitch up and they would start. Phebe would stay at the house, talking to the tenant's wife, while Pa walked across the pasture scooping up milkweeds and kicking out Russian thistles. He saw every detail in the vast and complicated process of farming. He would head toward the tenant. Did he have warbles? Pa would ask. How about rock salt?

Pa and Phebe would get in the buggy and start slowly back to town.

I became engaged . . . did I dare undertake marriage when I never knew from one month to another how much I would make?

As a boy I had listened to an entrancing train whistle at night, coming in over the sloughs, and wished with all my heart I could get on a train and go somewhere. And now an exceedingly bold idea laid hold of me. I would try to go around the world!

It is truly amazing what a person can do when he has a goal. It seems to work out this way; if you establish a goal and make a start, you've really done the hardest part. I made a start by soliciting several magazines to send me around the world writing for them. One editor looked at me sternly. "That's a fine idea. It must be a fine one, or so many people wouldn't present it."

I kept on until I got Leslie's Weekly to agree to send me. When the letter of agreement was drawn up, I found that it bound Leslie's Weekly as loosely as a twine string around a shorthorn. I was put down by this, not yet having fathomed the ways of magazines, but I was so eager to go that I entered only a mild protest. Then I did something I'm still astonished at. I went to a number of advertising companies and announced that I was going on a trip around the world and that I would be pleased to represent their clients. My youth, or enthusiasm, or eagerness, or something—I'm not sure what it was—made them sign up. I was to smoke a certain kind of pipe tobacco, use a certain kind of toothpaste, and chew just one kind of gum. I still blink as I remember all the things I was to do. When I got back I was to write of my experiences going around the world smoking, chewing, and tooth-cleaning.

Encouraged by my success (so far), I hit upon another bold idea. I would take motion pictures! I singled out the Universal Film Company as being susceptible, and tripped gaily in. Here again my tremendous confidence must have been on my side, for I was passed along until I came before Carl Laemmle himself. He was a short man, a German Jew, with a wide space between two upper middle teeth which seemed to make his accent more pronounced. He had a kindly, almost fatherly, attitude; in fact his office name was "Uncle Carl." He hesitated when I told him my fine idea. "How you goin' to make pichers when you don't take photographs?" he asked.

"You'll have to send a cameraman with me," I announced. "I'm going to direct the pictures."

He studied me, and I knew my fate was being weighed. "How many pictures have you direct?"

"I haven't directed any yet," I said, sensing that victory was coming my way. "But I can do it all right."

He looked at me, meditating. . . .

It was finally agreed that I was to see him in Hollywood, but when I arrived there I found ten thousand others were also trying to see him, for these were the wild, gold-strike days of motion pictures. I shadowed him, not only at his office but also on the lot, every time the poor man left his door. But all the other pursuers were after him, too, some of them far more bloodthirsty than I was. One day in his office, I happened to overhear in a conversation that he was going to the bank. I waited to pounce on him, for I had by this time grown desperate, but he used an unexpected side door. I started across the lot feeling everything was lost, then spied him getting into his big, open-topped car. I dashed for him, leaped on the running board of the moving car and plopped down beside the astonished man. For a moment he did not know me and seemed to think he was the victim of some wild plot.

I talked as I had never before talked in my life. By the time we reached the bank he had said Yes.

His publicity department had widely publicized something I termed "Laemmle Luck," and I'm sure the old gentleman believed he had it. I hoped to God he was right.

A cameraman was assigned and I started out with my smoking tobacco, chewing gum and toothpaste to go around the world. I found a Universal film company working in Honolulu, making what they called "authentic" South Seas pictures, and learned a little about handling film and chemicals and drying racks in the subtropics.

The first place I photographed, after Honolulu, was Japan; and the first "shot" (I was learning fast) was a silkworm factory. The Japanese Government sent three men and they never got farther away from me, I'm sure, than ten feet. And demanded to see every inch of film.

I won't stop to set down all my adventures, except this one point. I was on the China Sea, on a North German-Lloyd ship named the Francis Ferdinand, sitting at the captain's table, one noon, when a man from the wireless office came, said something in German, and handed the captain a message. The captain read it, then reread it, and, to my astonishment, arose slowly and, without a word to anyone, faced the end of the dining room where there was a painting on the wall of the Archduke Francis Ferdinand. He saluted the picture gravely, and sat down. Then he said, "He has just been assassinated at Serajevo."

But it did affect me, as I soon found. Singapore—England's stronghold in the Orient—was filled with German spies. And soon, at my Dutch hotel, I heard nothing but war. But it would be over soon.

On the way to Rangoon, later, four or five English "clarks," who had been assigned to duty at home, walked up and down the deck giving an imitation of the goose step and roaring with laughter. I laughed, too. It all seemed vastly amusing.

One of the clerks said, "It'll all be over before we get home and I'll have to turn around and come back, which'll be just my luck."

At Rangoon a shadow fell across us. We were transferred to another ship, one much smaller. Gradually matters grew worse and I felt myself struggling against something powerful and relentless, as one does in a troubled dream.

I had no passport of any kind, for at that time passports were not required. But I did have a personal letter from William J. Bryan, Secretary of State, which the publisher of Leslie's Weekly had got for me.

I got on the train one night in Calcutta with a Pennsylvania Dutch young man of my age. We were in the compartment alone together; the engine was smoking and breathing heavily, and people were going up and down the platform in a last-minute excitement of departure when suddenly the door was opened by two British officers. One said, "Are there any Germans in here?"

The young man with me answered, "No."

He was hauled out and was, I learned later, kept in Ceylon as a prisoner for three months.

I made newsreels and travel pictures across India, but even here, miles from any British stronghold, I felt the war roaring toward me like some gigantic but invisible force. In Bombay my camera was taken from me and I had to see half a dozen officials to get it back. I ran out of money, and the Majestic Hotel ejected us, but kept our cameras, chemicals and equipment. I moved into the YMCA, where, for three weeks, I was without a shilling to my name. All I could do was to smoke and scour my teeth and chew gum. At last money came through. I claimed my cameras and equipment, and got on to Egypt. The shadow had grown darker. I could fill pages with details of what happened, but I must forego that, for I don't want to make my book too long. Only just one point: I was questioned at the Second Cataract as a spy. William J. Bryan saved me.

At last I got to London and cut the film. It was released as half-reel subjects under my name. I thought it was, for the most part, pretty poor. But when the Universal house organ came out, it had this as a banner line: "UNIVERSAL SCORES AGAIN. LAEMMLE LUCK STILL HOLDS." I felt better.

I went to the advertising companies with my pictures and the pieces I'd written. The chewing gum company said No; and wanted none of what I had to offer. The others bought some of my "still" pictures and some of the material I wrote, at a price which I thought was pretty good, but which I now realize was ridiculously cheap.

And now I had enough money to get married. Oh boy!

When we were married, the Universal Newsreel made motion pictures of us coming out of the church and getting into a cab; the pictures were shown on the screen in and around New York. Thus we became the first couple in the world to be put into a newsreel. The church was the Swedenborgian, near Madison Avenue, New York, and the time was February 7, 1915. Until then the newsreels had dealt with burning buildings, street accidents and other calamities. Then they discovered love. It just shows how they were progressing. Later, in the British Museum, London, I was pleased to find a write-up of the wedding and the statement (very British) that an American couple had chosen to throw modesty to the winds and be photographed for the cinema actualities. The write-up didn't think much of the brash American couple. Well, they're still married. (And they still have the negative of the film.)

Your attention is again called to the fact that scrap paper is a vitally needed necessity to your government.

Save your scrap paper, bundle it neatly and deliver it to Mr. Lester Sayers who will see that it reaches the proper destination. This is a patriotic offer on Mr. Sayer's part. Save scrap paper and help in the war.

Even when these Chick Troubles Start in the Egg

Pratts

DOUBLE-DUTY CHICK STARTER

...can stop them!

Too often, chicks are hatched with the internal, first symptoms of food deficiencies because the egg itself was deficient.

So Pratts offer you a "Double Duty" Starter. It gives good chicks the best start off yet. It gives deficient chicks another chance... not just to live... but to grow into big strong, heavy laying chickens, too.

For example, should any of the nutritional troubles shown above start in the egg, Pratts "Double Duty" Starter will head it off. Recapture strength and health... then start the no longer ailing chick nestward bound.

Feed Pratts "Double Duty" Starter. Next Fall... when you house more good pullets than you expect... you'll know it paid.
